"I must always go the most extreme, even if it's not good. I love going to the limits of the possible, professionally as in my private life. I regret nothing" – Romy Schneider.

Romy – The Film, depicts the most important events and passages in the life of legendary actress Romy Schneider, a life that was lived both passionately and intensively and is still fascinating to this very day, nearly 30 years after her untimely death in Paris in 1982 at the age of 43. Romy Schneider was one of the most beautiful and intelligent actresses of her generation and hired by some of the greatest directors of her time. Yet, blessed as she was in her professional career, her personal life was marked by a series of tragedies and her unhappy relationship with French actor Alain Delon. Award-winning actress Jessica Schwarz portrays in this first ever biographical feature film about Romy Schneider the myth and reality of this celebrated and sought-after actress, and the sad reality of a woman who achieved such great success and yet searched unceasingly for the happiness and love that were to elude her.

WHISKY WITH VODKA

(Whisky mit Wodka)

Director: Andreas Dresen, colour, 108 min., 2009

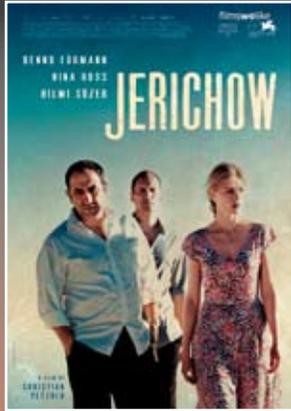

Actor Otto Kullberg is a man women love and men like. Sometimes he drinks a little too much. When his excessive drinking leads him to miss a day on the set of his new film and it seems like he's about to blow the whole thing, a younger actor is hired to shoot all the scenes a second time as a backup solution: Leo the producer is not willing to lose any money.

Otto, a man of fast wit and driven by his need to be at the centre of attention, finds himself forced to assert his role on the set, in a 1920's costume to decide between the love for two women, and to redefine his role in his own life. Many films ago, there was a love story between Otto and his partner Bettina, who is now the director's wife. Does the distinction between film and reality fade away? In the duel between the actors on set, no one wants to be the loser. Everyone loves the truth and everybody lies. Not to mention, you really shouldn't mix whisky and vodka.

Director: Christian Petzold, colour, 93 min., 2008

Nominated for the German Film Award 2009

Off the beaten path of life, three people stumble into a fateful encounter. Thomas, young and strong, has been dishonorably discharged from the army. Ali, an affable Turkish businessman, has seen some hard times but now his primary concern is making sure the employees of his snack bars don't cheat on him. Laura, an attractive woman with a dark past, seems to find refuge in the shadows of her marriage to Ali.

Jerichow is a love-triangle in which yearning evaporates into even bigger dreams. This drama unfolds on the country roads in desolate northeast Germany, where thick forests suddenly end on cliffs overlooking the Baltic Sea. The story is a classic cinematic constellation but with a daring new interpretation: caught between guilt and freedom, between passion and reason, there are wishes whose fulfillment can only mean escape.

Hannah Maynard, a prosecutor at the tribunal in The Hague, is leading a trial against Goran Duric, who is accused of the deportation and killing of Bosnian-Muslim civilians in a small town in what is now the Republika Srpska. When a key witness is ensnared in the contradictions of his testimony, the court sends a delegation to Bosnia to get a definitive picture of the events on site. Doubts as to the witness' credibility are confirmed. Shortly afterwards, he commits suicide. For Hannah, the case is not yet lost. Hoping to uncover new findings, she travels to the witness' burial in Sarajevo and meets his sister Mira. Hannah senses that Mira has more to say about the defendant than she is willing to admit, but she is afraid to face up to the past and endanger the future she has built up with her family in Germany after the war. Hannah finally manages to win her trust and convinces her to testify in The Hague. Shortly before the critical hearing, Duric's defence tries to have Mira's testimony disallowed and finds unexpected support from the side of the judiciary. Hannah realizes that her opponents are not only to be found at the dock, but also among her own ranks.

A grieving woman commissions an artist to paint a portrait of her children: her 22 year-old daughter, and most surprisingly her 19 year-old son, who recently died in a tragic accident. As he struggles to perfect his portrait, the stormy interaction between artist and subjects brings forth the intense psychological state of a complex family. A powerful story in which the tragic loss of a loved one becomes the catalyst for each family member to rediscover themselves and redefine their relationships.

Academy Award-winning German film maker Caroline Link's latest work is a compelling, evenly-paced psychodrama of a family struggling to come to terms with death.
